FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Delta Tau Delta Fraternity's Beta Delta Chapter at the University of Georgia Triumphs at Leadership Conference By Securing Coveted Awards

Atlanta, GA – Spring Semester 2024 – The University of Georgia chapter of Delta Tau Delta Fraternity made an indelible mark at the recent spring Leadership Conference by clinching two prestigious awards that underscore their members' commitment to excellence within the Fraternity. With unwavering dedication and exceptional leadership, the chapter has brought honor and distinction to both the University of Georgia and Delta Tau Delta.

Beta Delta Receives Prestigious Court of Honor Award:

Standing out amidst stiff competition, the University of Georgia's Delta Tau Delta chapter secured the esteemed Court of Honor award, a testament to their outstanding performance and dedication to the Fraternity's core values. This accolade, awarded only to the top 20 chapters nationally, marks a historic moment for the Beta Delta, as it signifies their return to the upper echelons of Fraternity excellence after several decades. The chapter's consistent efforts in fostering brotherhood, academic achievement, and community engagement have propelled them to this remarkable achievement, serving as a beacon of inspiration for chapters across the nation.

Outstanding Chapter President - Shawn Powers:

In addition to the collective success of the chapter, individual excellence was also celebrated as Shawn Powers, the chapter president, was honored with the Outstanding Chapter President award by the International Fraternity. This prestigious accolade recognizes Shawn's exceptional leadership, vision, and unwavering dedication to advancing the Fraternity's mission and values. Shawn Powers' exemplary leadership has not only elevated the chapter's standing within the Fraternity but has also left an indelible mark on the national Fraternity's community at large. This is the second presidential excellence award that Shawn has received for the work during his first term.

"Since I first met Shawn, I was impressed by the extraordinary leadership qualities he possesses. Shawn has worked tirelessly to create a sense of camaraderie and spirit of achievement within the Brotherhood. Both these initiatives within the group have allowed the members to have fun while working very hard for the greater good of the entire organization," Delta Tau Delta's Former International President and Beta Delta's Chapter Advisor, Jody Danneman said. "I think it through Shawn's strong leadership and the coming together of the Brotherhood towards a common goal that have allowed the men of Beta Delta to be recognized as one of the top 20 chapters in the Fraternity."

The University of Georgia's Delta Tau Delta chapter's triumphs at the Regional Conference underscore their unwavering dedication to upholding the principles of brotherhood, scholarship, and community service. As they continue to inspire and lead, their achievements serve as a source of pride and inspiration for the entire Delt community.
